Aiming For New Attendance Marks ... The Lobos have pumped up their numbers in several areas over the past three seasons under head coach Jeff Nelson. A big one is the jump in attendance at Lobo volleyball matches in the Johnson Center. During the first weekend of action in 2010, the Lobos averaged 2,371 fans, including a season-high 3,831 against No. 4 Stanford on Jam Johnson Day, Aug. 29. The mark ranks seventh on the single match attendance record list.

The largest crowd of 2009 was when 2,613 fans showed up at the Johnson Center on Nov. 7 to bid farewell to the three Lobo seniors - Anna Lehne, Rose Morris and Allie Suiter - and watch the Lobos beat BYU. It passed the mark of 2,338 fans who showed up for Jam Johnson 2009 on Oct. 1 vs. San Diego State. UNM averaged 1,677 fans over 14 home matches in 2009, ranking 23rd in the nation. It is the only time the Lobos have recorded over 1,000 fans at every match of the season.

The mark of 2,613 fans against BYU on Nov. 7 ranks ninth on the all-time UNM single match attendance list at Johnson Center and 14th overall including the years in The Pit.

Playing The Best To Be The Best ... Over three seasons, head coach Jeff Nelson has built successful non-conference schedules to challenge his team. The team has stepped up to the challenge each year compiling three of the winningest non-conference schedules in program history each season.

Now the challenge is even greater going into 2010! UNM will face three Top 10 programs and five 2009 NCAA Tournament participants in the first six matches of the season. Seven of the Lobos' 13 non-conference opponents received votes in the AVCA Preseason Coaches Poll.

The Lobos' 11-2 non-conference record in 2008 ranks as the third-best in program history following the final regular season matches against New Mexico State and Virginia Commonwealth. In 2009, the Lobos came close to that mark again with a 10-4 non-conference record that places eighth on the all-time list. UNM has a non-conference record of 30-9 in three seasons under the direction of Nelson.

Lobos on Television ... The Lobos have five television opportunities in 2010. UNM will play in front of a televised audience on Sept. 3 and 4 against USC and Hawaii in the Hawaiian Airlines Wahine Classic. KFVE-TV in Honolulu will carry both games. UNM will also reach a national audience three times during the MWC season. A Halloween meeting at Air Force will be shown on CBS C, followed by two matches on The Mtn. - Nov. 11 vs. Colorado State at the Johnson Center and Nov. 18 at Utah.
